VII 次の英文を読んで以下の問いに答えなさい。

Different cultures understand time in different ways. Stop for a moment and think about ①catch the train. Imagine the train leaves at 9 a.m. You are one minute late to the station. In Japan, the train would be gone. In other countries, ②there is a good chance that the train is running late. But you can still catch it. Another example of differences in time is (③) people or (④) to events. Is it okay to arrive early? Should I be late? Should I arrive (⑤) time? Understanding time can be difficult.

In my first year in Japan, I held a Christmas party for my Japanese students. I invited them to my apartment and told them that the party started at 8 p.m. It is usual in the UK* for friends to arrive to a party fifteen minutes late. At 8 p.m., I was still cleaning my apartment. I expected my guests to arrive at 8:15 p.m. Suddenly, there was a knock (⑥) the door. I answered the door and my students were outside. They said, "Hello," and I said, "You are fifteen minutes early!" ⑦I was shocked and ⑧they were shocked. I ran inside and quickly put my cleaning things (⑨). I then told them about British culture for arriving at parties and they laughed! We had a good party.

An American mother started to take her son to basketball practice each week. When the son joined the team, she was told that practice began at 6:30 p.m. She always took her son by car and arrived at 6:25 p.m. She thought ⑩this was a good idea so he would never be late. But she learned later that 6:30 p.m. really meant that the practice started at 6:15 p.m. Team members needed time to change their shoes, clean the floor, and sing the team song! ⑪This all happened before practice started. Her son was late for practice every week. She finally found this out and brought her son at 6:15 p.m.

Another of my friends went to see his son graduate* from kindergarten*. He arrived a few minutes early to the ceremony*. He opened the door to the ceremony hall, but was shocked to find ⑫he was late. Everybody (⑬) already sitting down and waiting for the ceremony to begin!

* UK 英国 graduate 卒園する kindergarten 幼稚園 ceremony 式
